FIFTY KILLED IN MINE GAS EXPLOSION

SIXTEEN DEAD REMOVED FROM INDIANA SHAFT

Work of Bringing Up
Bodies Impeded By
Cave-Ins.

Sullivan, Ind., Feb. 21.—With sixteen identified dead removed from the pit of the City coal mine near here and the thirty four still in the pit counted as lost, the total death list for the gas explosion yesterday was set at fifty today. Seventy men have been rescued.

At an early hour today, rescuers working in the entry sent word through the tubes to those above the ground that the roof of the entry had caved in and this will delay the work seriously.

Rescuers are finding it difficult to work in the shafts for a few moments at a time, even with the aid of gas masks.

Descending to a level of 55 feet in the main shaft at five a.m. today, rescuers were forced to return to the surface by the deadly black damp fumes. Though it was expected that several bodies would be removed today, it was said shortly before noon that the last of the thirty-four would not be taken out before tomorrow night at the earliest.

Work had to be abandoned yesterday after sixteen bodies had been removed. Gas fumes again and again drove workers from the shaft and four of them were brought out unconscious.

Repairs on the ventilating machinery and the retiming of sections badly torn by the explosion took five hours and during that period the rescue work was at a standstill.

As soon as the repairs had been completed, two crews of ten men each went down into the shaft and started a new search for the dead. These crews are working for three hours each, then their places are taken by others.

According to those who have been down in the pit since the explosion, all the men in that part of the mine affected by the explosion have been killed. No stragglers have come out of the wrecked part of the mine. The men had nothing with which to protect themselves from the deadly gases that formed after the explosion. About 120 men were working in the mine at the time of the explosion.

The explosion occurred in what was known as the third and fourth north entries, off the main east entry. It is believed to have been caused by a spark from an electric motor igniting gas and thus setting off accumulated dust in the workings of the mine. The mine was known as the type known as "dry" and in this sort of mine dust accumulates rapidly and becomes dangerous.

Most of the miners who were killed at Sullivan. When word spread into the town that an explosion had occurred the families of the miners poured out to the shaft.

Washington, Feb. 21—Henry M. Baker, director of disaster relief for the American Red Cross left Washington today for Sullivan, Indiana, to take charge of the relief work in the mine disaster there.

Chairman John Barton Payne, of the red cross has telegraphed W. S. Nesbit, chairman of the Sullivan chapter, authorizing the expenditure of funds for relief work.

PLANS MAPPED OUT FOR DONAHEY PROBE OF POISON MYSTERY

Columbus, Feb. 21.—Plans for the investigation ordered by Gov. Donahey into the Ohio State University strichine poisoning mystery were being mapped today by M. N. Ford, secretary of the state board of pharmacy who is directing the probe.

The investigation into the conduct of the pharmacy college dispensary, on the university campus, it is understood in state house circles was instigated by the proprietor of a pharmacy near the campus who was fined $1,000 last summer for leaving his place of business in charge of an assistant pharmacist.

Dean Clair A. Dye, of the pharmacy college, a registered pharmacist considered himself in charge of the dispensary, which doled out medicines to students at cost, he said today. He also pointed out that two of his three assistants were registered pharmacists. The third was an assistant pharmacist.

THREE YOUTHS HELD FOR OHIO HOLDUPS

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 21.—Three youths were arrested today in connection with holdups in Ohio and Detroit. The prisoners are Norman Townsend, 24, his brother, Fred, 21, and George Copeland, 26. Norman Townsend is said to be the fourth member of the band that staged the Lakewood, Ohio $17,000 bank holdup last November. He has waived extradition. Fred Townsend is on a $50,000 bail awaiting trial on a robbery charge in Cleveland.

HUGHES FIGHTS EFFORT TO OUST HIM FROM HOME

Farmer Will Resist Charges Of Crow—Hearing Here March 3

W. M. Hughes, farmer at the Greene County Infirmary has filed an appeal with the State Civil Service Commission from his suspension and discharge by D. E. Crow, superintendent of the home, asking the commission to disapprove an order of removal growing out of charges of "neglect of duty, due to infirmities of old age" filed with the commission by Crow.

In an injunction suit recently filed by Hughes through his attorney F. L. Johnson, in Common Pleas Court, the plaintiff declared that Crow had made an attempt to discharge him January 31, 1925 purely for "revengeful reasons growing out of testimony given by himself against Crow at the recent hearing of charges against Crow before the civil service commission."

A restraining order was allowed blocking Crow's attempt to remove Hughes, since formal charges had not been filed. Crow then filed charges against Hughes with the commission asking for his discharge on the grounds of his advanced age, his physical disability and neglect of duty.

Hearing of the charges against Hughes will be held before the state commission at the Infirmary March 3, it is announced by Rollin Swisher, chairman of the commission.

The commission will hear testimony in the case and arrange a personal interview with Hughes so that it can better judge his ability to continue as an employee of Greene County.

Hughes calls attention to the fact in his appeal that he has been employed as a farmer at the Infirmary for nearly twenty years and that this is the first time a complaint about his work has been made.

Hughes strikes back at the superintendent by declaring that if there has been any reason to find fault with the farming activities at the home it is because he attempted to follow "instructions of Crow" whose knowledge he says, "is limited and who really doesn't understand practical farming."

The defendant points out that there is no clause in the law which permits the discharge of an employee because of "advanced age" and Hughes claims that despite his 63 years, he is still able to perform all the duties as farmer of the home.

A test case may be made of the suit which will be watched with interest by other aged employees of the state.

The Crow-Hughes case is a lesser side-light of the recent trouble between the old Board of County Commissioners and Crow. A hearing of charges against Crow was the result of an attempt to oust him and the state commission ultimately absolved the superintendent from all blame. Hughes testified against Crow at the hearing.

The hearing March 3, will begin at 9 o'clock and will be open to the public, it is announced.

STOGIE SAFE ON FIRST HALF OF PIONEER TRIP

Officials Amazed at Suc- cess of Journey By Air to Bermuda

Washington, D. C., Feb. 21.—The dirigible Los Angeles, which arrived at Bermuda today, has left on its return trip, according to word received here.

Lakehurst, N. J., Feb. 21.—A radio message from the tanker Patoka to the dirigible Los Angeles, intercepted by the naval air station at Lakehurst, from which the air liner took off at 3:25 yesterday afternoon heralded her arrival over Bermuda early today.

The Patoka asked that the Los Angeles wait until after dawn to moor.

The tanker was sent to Hamilton, Bermuda, to await the coming of the dirigible and act as a mooring station for her.

Washington, Feb. 21.—The navy department was momentarily expecting a radio dispatch this morning announcing the arrival of the dirigible Los Angeles at Bermuda. Up to 9:45 a. m. however, it had not arrived.

The last dispatch from the Los Angeles was sent at 8 o'clock last night and that time the big ship was 420 miles from her destination and sailing along at a 65 mile gait.

At that hour, the officers and passengers aboard including assistant secretary of the navy Rawson and Rear Admiral Moffett, chief of naval air service, were sitting down to a dinner consisting of roast beef, spaghetti, beans, bread, butter, coffee, cake and fruit.

Knives and forks were a novelty the dispatch said but like everything else on board, impressed the passengers with the ingenuity evidenced in weight saving.

At 8:30 o'clock last night, the ship was about 2,000 pounds heavy on account of reduced temperature of the gas. The air was somewhat warmer and bumpier, due to unstable conditions over the gulf stream.

Assistant secretary of the navy Robinson said he was having the time of his life.

"It is almost beyond comprehension" he said in a dispatch "to think that I left Lakehurst, near New York, this afternoon, will sleep comfortably tonight and be in Bermuda when I awake. I am glad to make this pioneer trip and expect this ship to make many others and in a few years commercial airplane lines will be as commonplace as steamship lines. It is fitting that the navy should do this blazing for commercial fliers will be as valuable to air forces in time of war as our merchant marine is to our surface vessels."

DR. WILLIAM DAWSON
DIES IN COLUMBUS
HOSPITAL FRIDAY

Professor William M. Dawson, 49, professor of German and philosophy of religions at Antioch College, Yellow Springs, died in Mount Carmel Hospital, Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Professor Dawson had been ill since October 31, last, and was removed to the hospital for treatment and an operation three weeks ago. He suffered from an infection of the liver and due to the delicacy of the operation, physicians were forced to abandon their plans. The seriousness of his illness was realized from the first and he gradually grew weaker until his death.

Professor Dawson had been active in educational and religious work since young manhood. He graduated from Antioch College with the class of 1899 and taught in the college two years before receiving his diploma. He was the head of the Greek Department after graduating and later was made head of the German department, philosophy and religions.

He was an ordained minister in the Christian Church and preached for a number of years, his health forcing him to abandon the work within the last year. He held the pulpit at Shilo Springs, near Dayton, for sixteen years and supervised the building of the church there.

He preached at the same time at Trotwood, near Dayton, and was pastor of the Plattsburg, O., Christian Church for four years. During the past two years he gave part of his time to the work of the Sugarcreek Church.

Professor Dawson is survived by his widow and four children, two sons and two daughters, Merrill, Clyde and the Misses Charlotte and Anna, all students at Antioch College. One brother, John Quincy Dawson, of Coshcocon survives. Another brother, Dr. M. E. Dawson, for several years a resident of Bellbrook, was drowned in 1916, in Louisiana, and another brother, Clyde Dawson, also met death by drowning at Cape May, twenty-five years ago.

Four sisters, Mrs. Ora Nosker, Los Angeles, Calif., Mrs. Effie Teale, Mrs. Abby Stone, of Coshcocon, and Mrs. Catherine Bantam of Warsaw, Ohio, also survive.

Funeral services for Professor Dawson will be held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the residence, on North College Street, Yellow Springs, with interment in Glen Forest Cemetery, Yellow Springs.

JUNIOR HIGH FIVE BEATS FAIRFIELD

In a preliminary to the Central-Miamisburg game Friday night Central Junior High defeated Fairfield Scouts by 8 to 7 score. The game was hard fought and field goals were scarce. Both teams played good defensive games and long shots from the center of the court by Yeakley won the battle for the locals.

Yeakley was the luminary for the losers with a trio of baskets from the field.

Lineup and summary:
Junior High (11) - Fairfield (7)
Buell RF Smith

The meeting was opened with Scripture reading by the vice president and a song by Mrs. Anna Peterson and Mrs. Marianne Bogan. Francis Willard Memorial Day was observed in the program. Seventeen members were present. The Hostess served refreshments.

CLASS ENTERTAINED

Members of Mrs. V. F. Brown's Sunday School Class of Trinity M. E. Church, and their families were delightfully entertained at a chicken roast at the Eavey-Bell sugar camp, Thursday evening. About thirty-five persons enjoyed the affair.

City School Superintendent C. A. Waltz, and Harper C. Pendry, principals of Central High School will go to Cincinnati Monday to attend the sessions of the National Educational Department of Superintendents and Principals. They will be gone from Monday until Thursday.

ROSS LOSES OUT IN HOME STRETCH WHEN CEDARVILLE WINS

Hopes of Ross Township boys to annex the championship in the County Basketball League went glimmering Friday night when Cedarville succeeded in defeating the league leaders by a score of 11 to 10. By virtue of the win Cedarville went into a tie with Beaver for first place in the league at the close of the season, Friday.

Ross was forced to accept third position because of its first defeat in the regular league playing season.

Ross led at the half-way mark by a score of 5 to 3 but its guarding loosened up in the final period resulting in the upset.

Tight guarding was the principle feature of the game with no outstanding stars on either side. Jackson and Townsley tied for high scoring honors for the winners while Gordon was probably best for Ross. The lineup and summary:

Cedarville (11) Ross (10)

Jackson RF Gordon

Harris LF Knecht

Mills C Kavanaugh

Lucas RG Shepley

Townsley LG Deck

Field goals—Jackson 2, Townsley 2, Harris 1, Gordon 2, Kavanaugh 1, Deck 1. Foul goals—Harris 1, Kavanaugh 2. Referee—Driscoll.

Cedarville girls made the game a clean sweep for Cedarville by downing Ross girls' team by a 16 to 7 score in a closer game than the score indicates. Strobridge starred for Cedarville and P. Jones for Ross. The lineup and summary:

Cedarville (16) Ross (7)

Auld RF P. Jones

Strobridge LF R. Jones

Smith C Tidd

Hughes C Pitstick

Paxton RG Knecht

Feldner LG B. Jones

Field goals—Auld 3, Strobridge 4, P. Jones 3. Foul goals—Auld 1, Strobridge 1, R. Jones 1.

LAUNCH CAMPAIGN FOR APPLICANTS TO CAMP KNOX MARCH 1

The campaign for applicants for the Citizen's Military Training Camp to be held at Camp Knox, July 1 to 30, will begin March 1 and continue until the proportionate share of applications allotted this corps area has been obtained, according to a communication received Saturday by Attorney H. D. Smith, county chairman, from Lieut. Col. F. W. Glover, officer in charge of the encampment.

Ohio will be required to receive 2,600 applications which is the largest quota of any of the four states included in the Fifth Corps Area.

Instruction will be given at Camp Knox, Ky., in the infantry, cavalry, field artillery, engineers and signal corps for all candidates will be given at the summer camp. Advanced students will be trained at Ft. Benjamin Harrison, Ind., from July 8 to August 6.

It is also contemplated organizing a band of fifty pieces for each regiment at Camp Knox this summer. Each student wishing to become a member of the band will be required to furnish his own musical instrument, as bands are not provided in regulations authorizing C. M. T. camps.

Dr. H. C. Messinger, Xenia, an ex-service man, has been appointed by chairman Smith to take care of the vaccination of all applicants for smallpox and furnish a physical examination without charge to the applicant. Other physicians may be later appointed to assist in the work.

Inoculation against typhoid fever is also made a requirement provided this treatment as well as that for smallpox has not been taken within the last three preceding years.

Rev. B. A. and Mrs. Emma E. Beacham, traveling evangelist and gospel singer, of Chicago, who are conducting a series of meetings in Dayton, made the school a visit last week.

Major Fall W. Brady, Chief of Infantry, Washington, D. C., inspected the R. O. T. C. Unit of the University, Wednesday. The object of the inspection was to establish and maintain mutual co-operation between the chief of infantry and the unit concerned. The inspection included most of the senior R. O. T. C. units. While at the school he was the guest of Captain Charles H. Wilson, who has the work in charge.

Miss Anna Troutman of Arnett Hall, spent the week-end with relatives in Dayton.

PLAYLET WRITTEN BY MRS. ALLEN GIVEN

Mrs. W. L. Reynolds of Hills and Dales, Dayton, spent Friday with her mother, Mrs. Anna M. Haverstick, West Market Street.

Xenia Lodge, No. 668, B. P. O. E., will meet at the J. H. Whitmer Undertaking parlor, East Market Street, Monday morning, to attend the funeral services for the late Joseph H. Dickey.

Miss Harriett Keller, student at Miami University is spending the week end at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Keller of North Detroit Street.

Miss Velma Huston of West Third Street is spending the week end as the guest of friends in New Philadelphia, O.

FOUNDER OF KU KLUX KLAN IS BELIEVED FATALLY INJURED

Gainesville, Ga., Feb. 21—Colonel William Joseph Simmons, founder and formerly imperial wizard of the Ku Klux Klan and Captain Morris Moore, formerly chief prohibition agent in Texas were injured so badly in an automobile wreck near here today that neither is expected to recover.

Col. Simmons suffered a punctured lung, both collar bones were broken, several ribs fractured and deep cuts about the face and hands. Capt. Moore's neck was broken.

A. R. Rainier, another occupant of the automobile, escaped injury.

Capt. Moore's home was reported to be in Houston, Texas.

CONGRESSMEN'S SALARIES

The effort in Congress to raise the salaries of its members is so hopelessly out of line with President Coolidge's great policy of economy that it seems absurdly out of place at this time. It will receive very little public sympathy or support and it is more than likely that congressmen known to have joined in it and planning to return for re-election will suffer at the hands of their constituents. That some of the members already sense the peril is indicated by Senator Willis' denunciation of the method of putting through the provision for the increase, as an amendment to the legislative appropriation bill and without a rollcall, as "sneaking" and "outrageous." Senators and representatives, being human, doubtless desire the increase badly enough but, being human, they do not wish to be considered in any degree personally responsible for it. The notorious "salary grab" of 1873 for many years was held against those congressmen who voted for it.

It is probable that many congressmen, with the cost of living as it is in Washington, experience considerable difficulty in living on their 7,500 salaries in the style which they consider fitting. But thousands of other government employees are obliged to live in Washington on very much less than that. If there is to be any raising of federal salaries the beginning should be made among those to whom a congressman's pay looks like almost undreamed of luxury. Another thing to be remembered is that $7500 a year with the perquisites that go with it, is extraordinarily good pay for many a congressman, who is incapable of earning that much in private life. But the president's position on rigid economy in the public service, which has done much to endear him to the country, is enough in itself to condemn the effort to increase congressmen's salaries at this time and to make it extremely unpopular. It does not seem loyal to him.—Ohio State Journal.

GRAFT

The investigation of the illegal withdrawal of $2,000,000 worth of whiskey from the Haynes Distillery, Troy, Ohio, promises to be a sensation.

The grand jury investigation at Cleveland may result in indictment of several prominent federal prohibition enforcement officials and politicians who have allegedly been masking behind dry sentiment to carry on an elaborate system of grafting.

As dry officers and officials, these men have been allegedly carrying on nefarious activities while basking in the sympathetic sunshine of those favorable to the dry law.

The situation is one that gives those opposed to the amendment an opening wedge for their campaign to bring back a wet country, and this sort of thing must be stamped out if the Volstead act is to prevail.

CONVICTION

Albert E. Sartain and Lawrence Riehl have been convicted of conspiracy to accept and solicit bribes at the federal penitentiary at Atlanta, Ga.

Their trial took the lid off of a prison scandal that smelled foully in the nostrils of the public. There can be few things more obnoxious in this republic, than the idea of special privilege which money can buy.

Money therefore sets up a system of caste that is considerably more unwholesome than the mouldy peerage of Europe. In a democracy such as ours it is an attack at government when prisoners with well-filled pockets can obtain leniency within the walls while those not so well furnished with money, are subject to the usual unpleasantness of confinement.

THE GARDEN AND LIFE

About this time of year I take
The catalogue the seed men make
And eagerly I run it through
In search of blossoms, old or new,
Intent on finding something fine.
To plant within those beds of mine.

That garden is my summer boast
Where grow the plants I love the most.

From spring to fall friends come to see

The beauty of each plant and tree,
And very proud am I to show
Each lovely thing I've caused to grow.

Each year I find my garden space
Richer in loveliness and grace.
New plants I've added round about,

Some that have failed I've taken out
And by a sense of pride I'm moved
To know that garden I've improved.

Yet with my life I rush along
And little think of right or wrong,
But little time I take to plan
To make myself a fairer man.
I seldom hunt for splendors new,
As honest gardeners always do.

I seldom see that barren space
Of life which I could fill with grace,
Or think to cast old faults away
To put in something bright and gay.
My garden yearly I improve,
But live my life within a groove.

The next step will depend upon your personal preference. If you want a varnished finish, choose a water-proof varnish and apply two coats, 24 hours apart. This treatment is best for dining tables. If you desire a dull finish, lightly sandpaper the first varnish-coat before applying the second. Let the second stand 48 hours and then rub down with oil and pumice, taking care to make the strokes light and even, so as not to cut through the first coat.

But if you wish a waxed finish, do not apply varnish at all. Instead, use a coat of shellac and finish with wax a few hours later. A waxed finish is beautiful for library tables and small, fancy tables.

Remove the original gloss by scrubbing with one quart of hot water containing one heaping tablespoon of washing soda. Then fold a piece of thick felt, or a square of old pile carpeting, over a block of wood two inches square, which has a flat face, and dip the felt or carpeting, into linseed oil, sprinkle it with powdered pumice, and go over the table top with long, even strokes, working with the grain. Take care to keep the felt or carpeting well moistened with the oil, otherwise the pumice may leave fine scratches. When the surface is smooth to the touch, wipe off the pumice with some oil applied to a piece of old soft silk. Then rub off the surplus oil with clean rags.

You have now removed the oil polish. No doubt, too, the old stain has been partly removed. Apply a new oil stain (this may be a darker color if desired, as dark oak over light oak), taking pains to avoid streaks.

In about 20 minutes this applied stain will begin to set, and you must now wipe off the surplus with a bunch of soft rags, again working with the coming year.

Today's Talks

WHILE DOING THE THING

It is easy enough to float along with the crowd. It is very difficult to break the pace and steal into an alley that looks dark and mysterious and finally discover that it's blind after all.

But all alleys are not blind! That's where the encouragement comes in.

You may run down an idea and find it very "wiggly," like a freshly caught squirrel. But if you use enough care and patience you may tame it and make it a source of great pleasure to you.

The idea is to be doing something every minute of your life, to keep thinking along some definite line or lines. And to remember that you are as much an "unique" as the one Emerson talked about.

While doing the thing you learn to abide in yourself and not to steal or borrow stuff that has already been worked to ashes through the ages.

The materials from which we draw for our life work all come from the same loom. There is nothing new under the sun. People put things together and make new appearing things from them, but all we see are new shapes and new colors and new wonders that take life under a careful and patient workmanship.

But while doing the things—that which most interests us, and most distasteful to us—we build sometimes that thing which is the ladder by which we rise.

We must make something of ourselves, not a something out of borrowed goods.

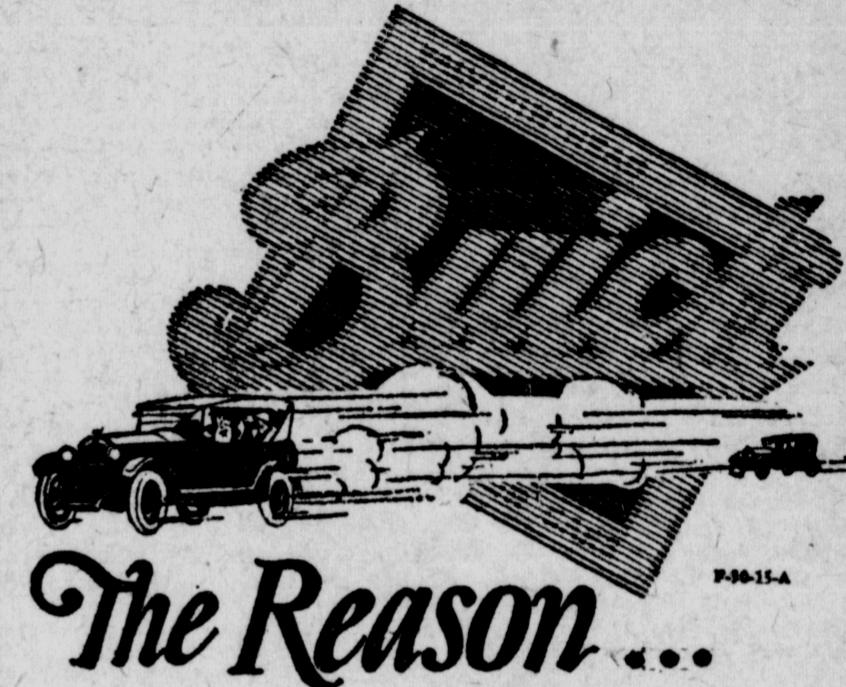

We must work happily, through the bitter and the sweet and not fuss so much when surrounded by worries. These worries are just busy hills after all. The time always comes when a man discovers himself. And then nothing else matters much for it's a splendid world.

WILBERFORCE WILL HOLD CELEBRATION OF FOUNDERS' DAY

Founders' Day celebrating the founding of Wilberforce University, February 24, 1856 by Bishop Daniel A. Payne, will begin Monday night and close Tuesday night at the University.

The Founders' Day Committee, under the direction of Miss Tressie Clark, chairman, has already made extensive plans for carrying out an interesting program.

The students are divided into two groups, the "Green and the Gold" and the "Tayawas," and each group is making efforts to collect and report Tuesday night the largest donations for the benefit of the school. Much rivalry has already started and the amounts are posted daily on a large bulletin board.

The program will start Monday night with a musical comedy under the direction of Prof. George Simpson, in three acts with orchestral accompaniment, entitled "The Belle of Barcelona," the plot is a visit to old historic Spain, with an Irishman aboard, an English governess in trouble, an American lieutenant in love, the "Belle of Barcelona" engaged to a scheming nobleman. The characters and dramatic scenes will consist of 150 people appearing in rich costumes furnished by the Philip Szwirschina Company of Cincinnati.

Tuesday afternoon Bishop R. C. Ransom, an old alumnus of the school, will deliver the principal address. Bishop Ransom is an eloquent speaker and before he was elected Bishop was the editor of the A. M. E. Review, a literary magazine published by the A. M. E. connection.

Tuesday night, Miss Anna H. O. Williamson of the Normal Department, assisted by a number of students, will give a pantomime showing the activities of the departments using a stereopticon machine to make the illustrations.

Joseph H. Dickey, 54, well known Xenian and life-long resident of Greene County, died at his boarding house at Detroit and Third Streets, Friday evening at 9:40 o'clock, after a sudden attack of illness.

Mr. Dickey was stricken with paralysis after eating his evening meal and his death took place a few hours later. He has been in ill health for several years.

He was born in Xenia Station the son of James H. and Sylvia Park Dickey. The Dickey family resided for a number of years on West Market Street. Mr. Dickey was associated with The Miami Powder Company, in the Xenia office, for a number of years.

He is survived by one brother, William Dickey, of Dayton. Two nieces also reside in Dayton. An adopted sister, Mrs. Stanley Jenkins, resides in Chicago.

Funeral services will be held Monday morning at 10 o'clock, at the J. H. Whitmer funeral parlor, East Market Street, with interment in Woodland Cemetery.

Friends may call at the Whitmer parlor, between 3 and 4 o'clock, Sunday afternoon.

CAESARCREEK HIGH TAKES DOUBLE BILL FROM VALLEY TEAM

Caesarcreek High ended its schedule in the County Basketball League in a blaze of glory by taking a double-header from Spring Valley, the boys' team winning 9 to 5 in a close encounter and the girls' team easily defeating its rivals by a 21 to 8 score. The games were played at Caesarcreek.

Center Jenkins played best for the winners in the boys' tilt with two fielders while Noggle scored all of his team's five points. The lineup and summary of the boys' game: Caesarcreek (9) Spring Valley (5) St. John — RF — Noggle Hines — LF — Peterson Jenkins — C — Frix Pickering — RG — Spitzer R. Peterson — LG — Hurley Field goals Noggle 2, Jenkins 2, St. John 1, R. Peterson 1. Foul goals — Noggle 1, St. John 1. Referee — Haines, Wilmington.

The girls had little trouble in downing Spring Valley girls. Holding a safe lead at the half by a 21 to 1 score, the second team replaced the first and was allowed to play the last quarter. The losers made seven points in the last period. Lewis made sixteen points for the winners. The lineup and summary:

Caesarcreek (21) Spring Valley (8) J. Conklin — RF — Edwards Lewis — LF — Gaddis Carle — C — Buckle S. Bales — C — Conard Haines — RG — Wood G. Bales — LG — Hunt

Substitutions — Conklin for Lewis, Shambaugh for Carle, St. John for S. Bales, McKay for Haines, Buckle for Edwards, Hunt for Conard, Noggle for Wood. Field goals — Lewis 8, J. Conklin 3, Gaddis 3. Foul goals — J. Conklin 3, Edwards 1, Gaddis 1. Referee — Haines, Wilmington.

GEORGE WASHINGTON GREATEST FIGURE IN AMERICAN HISTORY DR. M'CHESNEY SAYS

Characterizing George Washington as one of the greatest men in history and undoubtedly the greatest man in the history of America, Dr. W. R. McChesney, president of Cedarville College delivered a forceful and eloquent address on "Washington, the Father of Our Country," before a large audience at the open house held by the Masonic Club at the Masonic Temple Friday night.

"If I may be allowed to quote the words of Abraham Lincoln, when I was called upon to pronounce the eulogy of Washington before a session of congress when he was president: 'Gentlemen of congress, the theme is too sacred, I cannot do it, let us meditate upon it,' declared Dr. McChesney.

"Time's noblest offspring is the lance, Europe had its old conquerors, the Caesars, Bismarck, of the iron hand, Charlemagne with his dream, William the Conqueror, Napoleon. But it was left for America to produce the inventors, such as Edison and the Wright brothers, the clergy the statesmen, such as Charles Hughes, the greatest man in the world today recognized for his brains and courage, and its financiers.

"Let us come to the last but not the least, the Cincinnati of the West, first in war, first in peace, first in the hearts of his countrymen, the beloved, immortal Washington, whose name will live long after other names are forgotten.

"Consider the backward and almost mediaeval times in which he lived. At that time the thirteen colonies were not united.

"Born of Anglo-Saxon blood he was democratic in spirit and his apparently aristocratic reserve was simply modesty. He influenced his men, America and the world as no other living man did.

"During his battles and throughout his life, he was always protected by the Unseen Hand that cared for him always.

"Was there any other man in this country or any country that ever undertook such a tremendous task with great odds against him as Washington elected to attempt when he was named commander-in-chief of the American forces. A God-fearing man, Washington firmly believed the cause of America was just.

"His personal magnetism was the confidence of his troops. This was shown once when a traitor was discovered in the heat of a battle and the troops were without a leader and discouraged. Washington rode among his troops with the words, 'My boys, to the front' led his consternated army forward and drove the British from the field. He was the only general in the entire army who could have inspired such confidence in his troops.

"God led Washington through the revolution in triumph and saw him crowned with success, finally granting him peace in his last year."

Miss Stella Bishop opened the musical program with a piano solo.

followed by a reading by Mrs. Ray Brannen and several song selections by Miss Laura Downs, R. O. Head presided as chairman.

The evenings' entertainment was concluded by refreshment course served by Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Kany.

DR. B. R. McCLELLAN TO SERVE ON COMMITTEE OF GORGAS MEMORIAL

Dr. Ben R. McClellan, Xenia physician, is a member of the Ohio Governing Committee of the Gorgas Memorial Institute of which President Calvin Coolidge is the titular head, according to announcement made at National headquarters in Chicago by Dr. Franklin Martin, chairman of the board of directors of the institute.

The institute is being established as a memorial to the late General William Crawford Gorgas and will carry out his ideas of the exercise of preventive measures and the use of scientific medicine to check diseases and wipe out pestilence.

Dr. McClellan and General Gorgas were intimate friends during their service in the World War and Dr. McClellan was one of several hundred physicians who offered their services in the General's memory.

Many other men of national prominence, in medicine and business, are actively identified with the movement. Among them are: Dr. William Ray, Dr. Charles Mayo, George M. Reynolds, Bernard Baruch, Dr. Bellisario Porras of Panama, Rear Admiral Edward R. Stitt, Dr. Ernest A. Sommer, Fred W. Upham, Judge John Bassett Moore, Maj. Gen. Merritte W. Ireland, Brig. Gen. Charles G. Dawes, Surgeon General Hugh S. Cummings, Adolph Ochs, W. P. G. Harding, Dr. George W. Orle, Dr. Gilbert Fitz-Patrick, Dr. George David Stewart and Dr. Ernest Fahnstock.

These men and 1500 other prominent physicians, are engaged in a nation wide campaign of health education, whereby the span of life will be increased, from the present average of 58 years to 70 years. It is expected this will come about in 25 to 40 years time.

The mortality rate has been cut one-seventh in the last ten years and one-third in thirty years, according to Dr. Martin. "If the death rate of 1880 existed today," said Dr. Martin, "the number of deaths this year would be 1,000,000 more.

ENTERS BANKRUPTCY

Three specimens of horseflesh are valued at $100 according to the schedule filed with the voluntary petition in bankruptcy filed in the United States District Court in Dayton Friday by H. Levi Smith, a Greene County farmer. Smith listed assets of $280 to cover liabilities of $10,807.65 and asked exemption of $500.

WRIGHT FIELD MOVE BLOCKED BY BRAND IN SUB COMMITTEE

Citizens of Osborn who recently enlisted the aid of Congressman Charles Brand, of Urbana, in an effort to persuade the air service to abandon its plans to remove Wilbur

The Wright Field from its present site at Fairfield to Middletown, Pa., won a victory Friday.

Plans to remove the field were blocked at Washington, D. C., when the house appropriations subcommittee refused to approve an item of $275,000 for making the change.

It is not assured that the field will remain at its present site for at least another year with the possibility that the air service may abandon removal plans entirely.

Congressman Brand was instrumental in blocking the move. The subcommittee reached its decision shortly after Brand had introduced arguments against the economy and feasibility of the move.

Although the appeal of Osborn citizens to Mason M. Patrick, chief of the air service, were fruitless, arguments of the Osborn petitioners as voiced by Congressman Brand were supported.

The appropriation of $275,000 asked by the air service was for the purpose of launching work of removing the repair shops and the storage plant from Wright Field during the next fiscal year. Removal work was scheduled to be begun this spring.

Becoming so enthused with the arguments of Osborn citizens, Congressman Brand spent the entire day last Sunday gathering material and data to present to the subcommittee.

The principal argument of the petitioners was that 315 men now employed at Fairfield would be affected by the change of which 225 are married and have established themselves and families in the vicinity of the air depot.

Brand pointed out that should the United States ever be drawn into another war the repair shop should be located farther in the interior than Middletown, Pa.

Headed by Attorney Morris D. Rice, a group of Osborn citizens first appealed to Congressman Brand against the removal pointing out that it was not worth the expense and that it could only work injustice to the majority of employees at the field, who have located at Osborn.

The mortality rate has been cut one-seventh in the last ten years and one-third in thirty years, according to Dr. Martin. "If the death rate of 1880 existed today," said Dr. Martin, "the number of deaths this year would be 1,000,000 more.

A COUGH REMEDY WITHOUT OPIATES

Many cough preparations contain some one or more harmful drugs which are added to take the place of opiates. None of these narcotic substitutes have ever been used in FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR COMPOUND. The name of every ingredient is plainly printed on every carton. You know what you are taking when you take Foley's. It clings to the throat. Good for old and young. You have a cough why not try it. SPECIAL GRAND JURY PROBE SATURDAY IS LENGTHY SESSION

Indications early Saturday afternoon were that the special Grand Jury investigation would be continued throughout the entire afternoon, court attaches declared.

Examination of the twenty-five witnesses had not been completed at 2 o'clock, it was announced. The jury convened in special session Saturday morning at 9 o'clock and adjourned at 11:30 to resume investigation at 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

Two counts of forgery, one of converting mortgaged property, one of grand larceny, one of cutting with intent to wound, one of stealing an auto and one of circulating and exhibiting obscene literature were being investigated.

H. E. Burgett, is being held on two charges, for forgery and converting mortgaged property. Ralph Cline, 19, Davey, W. Va., is charged with grand larceny and forgery. Elmer Bowermaster and Harold Stafford with auto stealing. Clarence Weakley, colored, Cedarville, with cutting to wound, and Ralph Kester with distributing obscene literature.

The January term of the grand jury was recalled in special session by Prosecuting Attorney J. Carl Marshall.

CORRECT USAGE IN SOCIAL CUSTOMS

Now it used to be considered quite the berries to take a box of candy to a theatre, but times have changed. The very latest is to take a couple ears of corn on the cob. An old tooth paste tube filled with butter is a very essential accessory. Tie a tablespoonful of salt in one corner of your handkerchief.

Well, there are some women who will take small children to the theatres who don't know what the wires under the seats are for. Instead of parking the babies on the wires until after the show, they will let their husbands put their hats there and will hold the babies. If, when the babies get to jabbering louder than the actors the mothers will leave, it is a sign of good breeding. In some cases it is well to take a rising vote of the audience to see which they would rather hear—the babies or the actors. In many cases the two evils they would choose the lesser and ask that the babies remain.

Congress not yet having seen fit to make it a crime punishable by death for a lady to tell how a play is going to end, the following plan is suggested: In case the lady in front of you has read the plot and tells everyone around her that the fellow is going to marry the girl, etc., take the ear of corn and tap her gently on the dome like as if you were coming down with a sledge hammer to drive a stake into the ground, only harder. Then let her sleep until the performance is over.

Whatever you do, take an ear of corn to the theatre with you. For, as I have often remarked, an ear of corn in the hand is worth two corns on the toe.

FIFTY KILLED IN MINE GAS EXPLOSION

SIXTEEN DEAD REMOVED FROM INDIANA SHAFT

Work of Bringing Up
Bodies Impeded By
Cave-Ins.

Sullivan, Ind., Feb. 21.—With sixteen identified dead removed from the pit of the City coal mine near here and the thirty four still in the pit counted as lost, the total death list for the gas explosion yesterday was set at fifty today. Seventy men have been rescued.

At an early hour today, rescuers working in the entry sent word through the tubes to those above the ground that the roof of the entry had caved in and this will delay the work seriously.

Rescuers are finding it difficult to work in the shafts for a few moments at a time, even with the aid of gas masks.

Descending to a level of 55 feet in the main shaft at five a.m. today, rescuers were forced to return to the surface by the deadly black damp fumes. Though it was expected that several bodies would be removed today, it was said shortly before noon that the last of the thirty-four would not be taken out before tomorrow night at the earliest.

Work had to be abandoned yesterday after sixteen bodies had been removed. Gas fumes again and again drove workers from the shaft and four of them were brought out unconscious.

Repairs on the ventilating machinery and the retiming of sections badly torn by the explosion took five hours and during that period the rescue work was at a standstill.

As soon as the repairs had been completed, two crews of ten men each went down into the shaft and started a new search for the dead. These crews are working for three hours each, then their places are taken by others.

According to those who have been down in the pit since the explosion, all the men in that part of the mine affected by the explosion have been killed. No stragglers have come out of the wrecked part of the mine. The men had nothing with which to protect themselves from the deadly gases that formed after the explosion. About 120 men were working in the mine at the time of the explosion.

The explosion occurred in what was known as the third and fourth north entries, off the main east entry. It is believed to have been caused by a spark from an electric motor igniting gas and thus setting off accumulated dust in the workings of the mine. The mine was known as the type known as "dry" and in this sort of mine dust accumulates rapidly and becomes dangerous.

Most of the miners who were killed lived at Sullivan. When word spread into the town that an explosion had occurred the families of the miners poured out to the shaft.

Washington, Feb. 21—Henry M. Baker, director of disaster relief for the American Red Cross left Washington today for Sullivan, Indiana, to take charge of the relief work in the mine disaster there.

Chairman John Barton Payne, of the red cross has telegraphed W. S. Nesbit, chairman of the Sullivan chapter, authorizing the expenditure of funds for relief work.

PLANS MAPPED OUT
FOR DONAHEY PROBE
OF POISON MYSTERY

Columbus, Feb. 21.—Plans for the investigation ordered by Gov. Donahey into the Ohio State University strichine poisoning mystery were being mapped today by M. N. Ford, secretary of the state board of pharmacy who is directing the probe.

The investigation into the conduct of the pharmacy college dispensary on the university campus, it is understood in state house circles was instigated by the proprietor of a pharmacy near the campus who was fined $1,000 last summer for leaving his place of business in charge of an assistant pharmacist.

Dean Clair A. Dye, of the pharmacy college, a registered pharmacist considered himself in charge of the dispensary, which doled out medicines to students at cost, he said today. He also pointed out that two of his three assistants were registered pharmacists. The third was an assistant pharmacist.

THREE YOUTHS HELD FOR OHIO HOLDUPS

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 21.—Three youths were arrested today in connection with holdups in Ohio and Detroit. The prisoners are Norman Townsend, 24, his brother, Fred, 21, and George Copeland, 26. Norman Townsend is said to be the fourth member of the band that staged the Lakewood, Ohio $17,000 bank holdup last November. He has waived extradition. Fred Townsend is out on $50,000 bail awaiting trial on a robbery charge in Cleveland.

She is Miss Anna E. Rae, known wherever there is a local building and loan association.

HUGHES FIGHTS EFFORT TO OUST HIM FROM HOME

Farmer Will Resist Charges
Of Crow—Hearing
Here March 3

W. M. Hughes, farmer at the Greene County Infirmary has filed an appeal with the State Civil Service Commission from his suspension and discharge by D. E. Crow, superintendent of the home, asking the commission to disapprove an order of removal growing out of charges of "neglect of duty, due to infirmities of old age" filed with the commission by Crow.

In an injunction suit recently filed by Hughes through his attorney F. L. Johnson, in Common Pleas Court, the plaintiff declared that Crow had made an attempt to discharge him January 31, 1925 purely for "revengeful reasons growing out of testimony given by himself against Crow at the recent hearing of charges against Crow before the civil service commission."

A restraining order was allowed blocking Crow's attempt to remove Hughes, since formal charges had not been filed. Crow then filed charges against Hughes with the commission asking for his discharge on the grounds of "his advanced age, his physical disability and neglect of duty."

Hearing of the charges against Hughes will be held before the state commission at the Infirmary March 3, it is announced by Rollin Swisher, chairman of the commission. The commission will hear testimony in the case and arrange a personal interview with Hughes so that can better judge his ability to continue as an employee of Greene County.

The case is the first in the history of the commission that it has been called upon to approve or disapprove an order of removal of an employee because of "old age" and infirmities due to ripe years, it is said.

Hughes calls attention to the fact in his appeal, that he has been employed as a farmer at the Infirmary for nearly twenty years and that is the first time a complaint about his work has been made.

Hughes strikes back at the superintendent by declaring that if there has been any reason to find fault with the farming activities at the home it is because he attempted to follow "Instructions of Crow" whose knowledge he says, "is limited and who really doesn't understand practical farming."

The defendant points out that there is no clause in the law which permits the discharge of an employee because of "advanced age" and Hughes claims that despite his 63 years, he is still able to perform all the duties as farmer of the home.

A test case may be made of the suit which will be watched with interest by other aged employees of the state.

The Crow-Hughes case is a lesser side-light of the recent trouble between the old Board of County Commissioners and Crow. A hearing of charges against Crow was the result of an attempt to oust him and the state commission ultimately absolved the superintendent from all blame. Hughes testified against Crow at the hearing.

The hearing March 3, will begin at 9 o'clock and will be open to the public, it is announced.

STOGIE SAFE ON FIRST HALF OF PIONEER TRIP

Officials Amazed at Success of Journey By Air to Bermuda

Washington, D. C., Feb. 21.—The dirigible Los Angeles, which arrived at Bermuda today, has left on its return trip, according to word received here.

Lakehurst, N. J., Feb. 21.—A radio message from the tanker Patoka to the dirigible Los Angeles, intercepted by the naval air station at Lakehurst, from which the air liner took off at 3:25 yesterday afternoon heralded her arrival over Bermuda early today.

The Patoka asked that the Los Angeles wait until after dawn to moor.

The tanker was sent to Hamilton, Bermuda to await the coming of the dirigible and act as a mooring station for her.

Washington, Feb. 21.—The navy department was momentarily expecting a radio dispatch this morning announcing the arrival of the dirigible Los Angeles at Bermuda. Up to 9:45 a.m., however, it had not arrived.

The last dispatch from the Los Angeles was sent at 8 o'clock last night and that time the big ship was 420 miles from her destination and sailing along at a 55 mile gait.

At that hour, the officers and passengers aboard including assistant secretary of the navy Rawson and Rear Admiral Moffett, chief of naval air service, were sitting down to a dinner consisting of roast beef, spaghetti, beans, bread, butter, coffee, cake and fruit.

Knives and forks were a novelty, the dispatch said but like everything else on board, impressed the passengers with the ingenuity evidenced in weight saving.

At 8:30 o'clock last night, the ship was about 2,000 pounds heavy on account of reduced temperature of the gas. The air was somewhat warmer and bumpier, due to unstable conditions over the gulf stream.

Assistant secretary of the navy Robinson said he was having the time of his life.

"It is almost beyond comprehension" he said in a dispatch "to think that I left Lakehurst, near New York, this afternoon, will sleep comfortably tonight and be in Bermuda when I awake. I am glad to make this pioneer trip and expect this ship to make many others and in a few years the commercial airplane lines will be as commonplace as steamship lines. It is fitting the navy. It is fitting that the navy should do this blazing for commercial fliers will be as valuable to air forces in time of war as our merchant marine is to our surface vessels."

Practically all members of the existing committee acquiesce in Mitchell's suggestion for a unified service. They have planned to recommend this change as the first point of their report, war and navy officials are vigorously opposed to moving the air services from their present berths.

Washington, Feb. 21—Administration leaders launched a drive today to prevent a report by the house aircraft committee.

Displeasure of the White House and the War and Navy departments with the sensational testimony concerning America's lack of air defense, particularly that adduced from Brig. General William Mitchell, assistant chief of army air service, was given as the reason.

The administration move will come to the surface with the vote on the resolution authorizing the committee to draft its report but holds no further hearings, after adjournment. Cognizant of this opposition, committee members did not ask for permission other than to write its report after March 4.

Aside from attempting to kill a report, some of the more staunch administration followers are even considering the possibility of bringing in a resolution creating an entirely new committee upon which would be placed men more favorable to the defense views of the general staff which Mitchell has savagely assailed. This committee would take up the reigns after March 4, and conduct a new inquiry for the next congress.

THREE PERSONS DIE IN OIL TANK BLAST

Philadelphia, Feb. 21—Three persons were reported killed and several injured at 10:30 this morning in an explosion of an oil tank at the Gulf Refining Company's plant at 49th Street and Volcanic Avenue. The force of the explosion was felt in the center of the city. All available fire companies have been rushed to the scene.

Rabbi Blames Public For Naughty Plays Produced

Cincinnati, Feb. 21—"The public is to blame if naughty plays are produced on the stage" said Rabbi Jacob H. Kaplan in his lecture at the Reading Road Temple last night. How much the public may complain of salacious plays, the public is to blame for their existence he asserted.

"The stage reflects what the street and the club cherish as life" he added.

"If we did not want empty churches and crowded theatres if we did not want theological nonsense spoken in the church and temple and salacious and vice provoking plays presented on the stage, it would not be thus."

CONDITION OF KING
IMPROVES SLOWLY

London, Feb. 21.—The bronchial ailment from which King George is suffering was worse during the night, although the three physicians who are attending him announced today that his condition is satisfactory. The official bulletin posted on the gates at Buckingham palace, read:

"His Majesty's temperature has not yet returned to normal. Progress continues, although slowly."

FEDERAL GRAND JURY BOOTLEGGING PROBE IS BEING BROADENED

Sensational Disclosures May Be Made—Records of Withdrawals in Hands Of Jury While Suspects and Witnesses Rounded Up.

Cleveland, Feb. 21.—With the records of liquor withdrawals issued by the office of federal prohibition director J. E. Russell of Columbus in the hands of the federal grand jury, and with United States deputy marshals scouring the state for witnesses and suspects wanted in what is declared to be the most gigantic rumrunning plot unearthed in the middlewest, the federal grand jury investigation "of bootlegging deluxe" broadened today.

The days of 1921 and 1922, when, upon the alleged illicit withdrawal of $2,000,000 worth of whiskey from the Haynes distillery at Troy and its distribution through bootleg channels to the thirsty in northern Ohio.

Reports from Atlanta that George Remus of Cincinnati, "bootleg king" now serving time in the federal pen there was to be called as a witness were denied today by District Attorney A. E. Bernstein.

Before departing for Washington last night Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrand, assistant attorney general in charge of the enforcement of the Volstead act, declared that reports that the department had gone over the head of Bernstein to instigate the probe were entirely unfounded.

"We are here," she said. "to give Mr. Bernstein every assistance in the power of the department, but it was his work that started the probe."

Howard C. Parks, cashier of the Ohio National Bank, at Columbus, H. M. Paul of Ironton, deputy prohibition director for Ohio; Don R. Thomas, commission clerk in the office of Governor A. V. Donahue and four clerks in the office of prohibition Director Russel were among the witnesses examined yesterday.

Two officials of the federal prohibition division in Ohio and a Columbus politician were reported to be under surveillance of United States marshals today.

DR. WILLIAM DAWSON DIES IN COLUMBUS HOSPITAL FRIDAY

Professor William M. Dawson, 49, professor of German and philosophy of religions at Antioch College, Yellow Springs, died in Mount Carmel Hospital, Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Professor Dawson had been ill since October 31, last and was removed to the hospital for treatment and an operation three weeks ago. He suffered from an infection of the liver and due to the delicacy of the operation, physicians were forced to abandon their plans. The seriousness of his illness was realized from the first and he gradually grew weaker until his death.

Professor Dawson had been active in educational and religious work since young manhood. He graduated from Antioch College with the class of 1899 and taught in the college two years before receiving his diploma. He was the head of the Greek Department after graduating and later was made head of the German department, philosophy and religions.

He was an ordained minister in the Christian Church and preached for a number of years, his health forcing him to abandon the work within the last year. He held the pulpit at Shilo Springs, near Dayton, for sixteen years and supervised the building of the church there.

He preached at the same time at Trotwood, near Dayton, and was pastor of the Plattsburg, O., Christian Church for four years. During the past two years he gave part of his time to the work of the Sugarcreek Church.

Professor Dawson is survived by his widow and four children, two sons and two daughters, Merrill, Clyde and the Misses Charlotte and Anna, all students at Antioch College. One brother, John Quincy Dawson, of Coshcocon survives. Another brother, Dr. M. E. Dawson, for several years a resident of Bellbrook, was drowned in 1916, in Louisiana and another brother, Clyde Dawson, also met death by drowning at Cape May, twenty-five years ago.

Four sisters, Mrs. Ora Nosker, Los Angeles, Calif., Mrs. Effie Teale, Mrs. Abby Stone, of Coshcocon, and Mrs. Catherine Bantam of Warsaw, Ohio, also survive.

Funeral services for Professor Dawson will be held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the residence, on North College Street, Yellow Springs, with interment in Glen Forest Cemetery, Yellow Springs.

JUNIOR HIGH FIVE BEATS FAIRFIELD

CENTRAL HIGH QUINTET TAKES FOURTH WIN IN A ROW DEFEATING MIAMISBURG HIGH 31-23

BY L. J. WONES

Central High School basketball team defeated Miamisburg High Friday night at Central gym by a 31 to 23 score in a brilliant game. It marked the locals fourth straight win and makes their total wins eight with but three defeats.

Rutan and Perrine were the main cogs in Central's offense. Rutan was high man with thirteen points while Perrine was runner up with five fielders and one foul. "Pino" played a whale of a game both on offense and defense, but was closely watched by the losers in the last half and was held to a lone fielder. Rutan did not get going until the second half when he tossed three fielders and a pair of fouls. Huston played well at left forward and scored three times from the field Buell and Holton look ed good at center and guard respectively.

Cline at right forward and Kauffman who played running guard were the Burgers' best bets. The former located the hoop three times from the field and twice from the free throw line making him high man for his team. Kauffman made three baskets two of them being long ones from the center of the court.

Miamisburg scored first when Perrine fouled Wertz and he made good on the attempt. Kauffman dropped in a long one putting his team in front by a 3 to 0 score. The teams then played for fully three minutes or so before anymore scoring. It was Miamisburg which scored again when Cline dumped a short one after he took a pass from Kauffman. Perrine put his team in the running when he made two in rapid succession. Huston followed with a pair from the field that gave his team an 8 to 5 lead as the quarter ended.

Perrine started things going in the second period when he caged a short one. He dribbled down the side for another a moment later putting his team in front by a 10 to 9 point lead. Rutan added a foul and here Central stopped for awhile. Kauffman looped in two fielders. Buell made a foul and Wertz tossed a fielder bringing his team within three points of the locals. Rutan tossed both fouls and added a field goal after the toss up. Cline made a foul as the half ended with the Big Blue in front by an 18 to 12 score.

The locals again outscored their opponents in the third quarter making seven points while they held Miamisburg to one fielder and a foul. Rutan got two in this period while Perrine made one and also tossed a foul. Cline scored from the field for his team while Wertz made one from

BELLBROOK BEATS FAIRVIEW CAGERS

ROSS LOSES OUT IN HOME STRETCH WHEN CEDARVILLE WINS

Hopes of Ross Township boys to annex the championship in the County Basketball League went glimmering Friday night when Cedarville succeeded in defeating the league leaders by a score of 11 to 10. By virtue of the win Cedarville went into a tie with Beaver for first place in the league at the close of the season, Friday.

Ross was forced to accept third position because of its first defeat in the regular league playing season.

Ross led at the half-way mark by a score of 5 to 3 but its guarding loosened up in the final period resulting in the upset.

Tight guarding was the principle feature of the game with no outstanding stars on either side. Jackson and Townsley tied for high scoring honors for the winners while Gordon was probably best for Ross. The lineup and summary:

Cedarville (11) Ross (10)

Jackson RF Gordon

Harris LF Knecht

Mills C Kavanaugh

Lucas RG Shepley

Townsley LG Deck

Field goals—Jackson 2, Townsley 2, Harris 1, Gordon 2, Kavanaugh 1, Deck 1. Foul goals—Harris 1, Kavanaugh 2. Referee—Driscoll.

Cedarville girls made the game a clean sweep for Cedarville by downing Ross girls by a 16 to 7 score in a closer game than the score indicates. Strobridge starred for Cedarville and P. Jones for Ross. The lineup and summary:

Cedarville (16) Ross (7)

Jackson RF Ross (7)

Auld LF R. Jones

Strobridge C Tidd

Hughes C Pitstick

Paxton RG Knecht

Ritenour LG B. Jones

Field goals—Auld 3, Strobridge 4, P. Jones 3. Foul goals—Auld 1, Strobridge 1, R. Jones 1.

Your Income Tax

No. 25

Deductions for contributions or gifts are limited to 15 per cent of the taxpayer's net income as computed without the benefit of the provisions of the law allowing such deduction. This means that from the total of all the taxable items there is subtracted all allowable deductions—business expenses, losses, taxes, etc.—except contributions, the remainder being the amount upon which the 15 per cent limitation is based.

A new provision of income tax legislation is that if during the taxable year 1924 and in each of the 10 preceding taxable years the amounts contributed for purposes specified by the revenue act of 1924 exceeds 90 per cent of the taxpayer's net income "as computed without the benefit of this paragraph," the full amount of

The effort in Congress to raise the salaries of its members is so hopelessly out of line with President Coolidge's great policy of economy that it seems absurdly out of place at this time. It will receive very little public sympathy or support and it is more than likely that congressmen known to have joined in it and planning to return for re-election will suffer at the hands of their constituents. That some of the members already sense the peril is indicated by Senator Willis' denunciation of the method of putting through the provision for the increase, as an amendment to the legislative appropriation bill and without a rollcall, as "sneaking" and "outrageous." Senators and representatives, being human, doubtless desire the increase badly enough but, being human, they do not wish to be considered in any degree personally responsible for it. The notorious "salary grab" of 1873 for many years was held against those congressmen who voted for it.

It is probable that many congressmen, with the cost of living as it is in Washington, experience considerable difficulty in living on their 7,500 salaries in the style which they consider fitting. But thousands of other government employees are obliged to live in Washington on very much less than that. If there is to be any raising of federal salaries the beginning should be made among those to whom a congressman's pay looks like almost undreamed of luxury. Another thing to be remembered is that $7500 a year with the perquisites that go with it, is extraordinarily good pay for many a congressman, who is incapable of earning that much in private life. But the president's position on rigid economy in the public service, which has done much to endear him to the country, is enough in itself to condemn the effort to increase congressmen's salaries at this time and to make it extremely unpopular. It does not seem loyal to him.—Ohio State Journal.

GRAFT

The investigation of the illegal withdrawal of $2,000,000 worth of whiskey from the Hayner Distillery, Troy, Ohio, promises to be a sensation.

The grand jury investigation at Cleveland may result in indictment of several prominent federal prohibition enforcement officials and politicians who have allegedly been masking behind dry sentiment to carry on an elaborate system of grafting.

As dry officers and officials, these men have been allegedly carrying on nefarious activities while basking in the sympathetic sunshine of those favorable to the dry law.

The situation is one that gives those opposed to the amendment an opening wedge for their campaign to bring back a wet country, and this sort of thing must be stamped out if the Volstead act is to prevail.

CONVICTION

Albert E. Sartain and Lawrence Riehl have been convicted of conspiracy to accept and solicit bribes at the federal penitentiary at Atlanta, Ga.

Their trial took the lid off of a prison scandal that smelled foully in the nostrils of the public. There can be few things more obnoxious in this republic, than the idea of special privilege which money can buy.

Money therefore sets up a system of caste that is considerably more unwholesome than the mouldy peerage of Europe. In a democracy such as ours it is an attack at government when prisoners with well-filled pockets can obtain leniency within the walls while those not so well furnished with money, are subject to the usual unpleasantness of confinement.

THE GARDEN AND LIFE

About this time of year I take The catalogue the seed men make And eagerly I run it through In search of blossoms, old or new, intent on finding something fine To plant within those beds of mine.

That garden is my summer bower Where grow the plants I love the most.

From spring to fall friends come to see

The beauty of each plant and tree, And very proud am I to show Each lovely thing I've caused to grow.

Each year I find my garden grace Richer in loveliness and grace. New plants I've added round about,

Some that have failed I've taken out And by a sense of pride I'm moved To know that garden I've improved.

Yet with my life I rush along And little think of right or wrong. But little time I take to plan To make myself a fairer man. I seldom hunt for splendors new, As honest gardeners always do.

I seldom see that barren space Of life which I could fill with grace, Yet think to cast old faults away To put in something bright and gay. My garden yearly I improve, But live my life within a groove.

Word was received here Wednesday of the death at Centerville, of Mrs. Solomon Swigart, who had been making her home with her daughter, Mrs. Mary True, in the home of Lewis Bradford. She was the widow of Solomon Swigart who died some sixteen years ago. Mrs. Swigart was 87 years of age, and was an excellent Christian woman the greater part of her life. Her loss will be mourned by two sons and one daughter, William Swigart of Middletown, Edward Swigart of Dayton and Mrs. Mary True of Centerville. She also leaves a number of grand and great grandchildren. Funeral services have been arranged to occur at Mt. Zion Church of which she was a member, Saturday morning, and burial made in Mt. Zion Cemetery.

grain. Let stand for over 24 hours—48 is safest—then, if the grain has been raised by the stain, smooth lightly with number double-nothing sandpaper and wipe off the dust. The next step will depend upon your personal preference. If you want a varnished finish, choose a waterproof varnish and apply two coats, 24 hours apart. This treatment is best for dining tables. If you desire a dull finish, lightly sandpaper the first varnish-coat before applying the second. Let the second stand 48 hours and then rub down with oil and pumice, taking care to make the strokes light and even, so as not to cut through the first coat.

But if you wish a waxed finish, do not apply varnish at all. Instead, use a coat of shellac and finish with wax a few hours later. A waxed finish is beautiful for library tables and small, fancy tables.

Remove the original gloss by scrubbing with one quart of hot water containing one heaping tablespoon of washing soda. Then fold a piece of thick felt, or a square of old pile carpeting, over a block of wood two inches square, which has a flat face, and dip the felt or carpeting, into linseed oil, sprinkle it with powdered pumice, and go over the table top with long, even strokes, working with the grain. Take care to keep the felt or carpeting well moistened with the oil, otherwise the pumice may leave fine scratches. When the surface is smooth to the touch, wipe off the pumice with some oil applied to a piece of old soft silk. Then rub off the surplus oil with clean rags.

You have now removed the oil polish. No doubt, too, the old stain has been partly removed. Apply a new oil stain (this may be a darker color if desired, as dark oak over light oak), taking pains to avoid streaks.

In about 20 minutes this applied stain will begin to set, and you must now wipe off the surplus with a bunch of soft rags, again working with the original gloss.

Today's Talks

WHILE DOING THE THING

It is easy enough to float along with the crowd. It is very difficult to break the pace and steal into an alley that looks dark and mysterious and finally discover that it's blind after all.

But all alleys are not blind! That's where the encouragement comes in.

You may run down an idea and find it very "wiggly," like a freshly caught squirrel. But if you use enough care and patience you may tame it and make it a source of great pleasure to you.

The idea is to be doing something every minute of your life, to keep thinking along some definite line or lines. And to remember that you are as much an "unique" as the one Emerson talked about.

While doing the thing you learn to abide in yourself and not to steal or borrow stuff that has already been worked to ashes through the ages.

The materials from which we draw for our life work all come from the same loom. There is nothing new under the sun. People put things together and make new appearing things from them, but all we see are new shapes and new colors and new wonders that take life under a careful and patient workmanship.

But while doing the things—that thing which most interests us, and most distasteful to us—we build sometimes that thing which is the ladder by which we rise.

We must make something of ourselves, not a something out of borrowed goods.

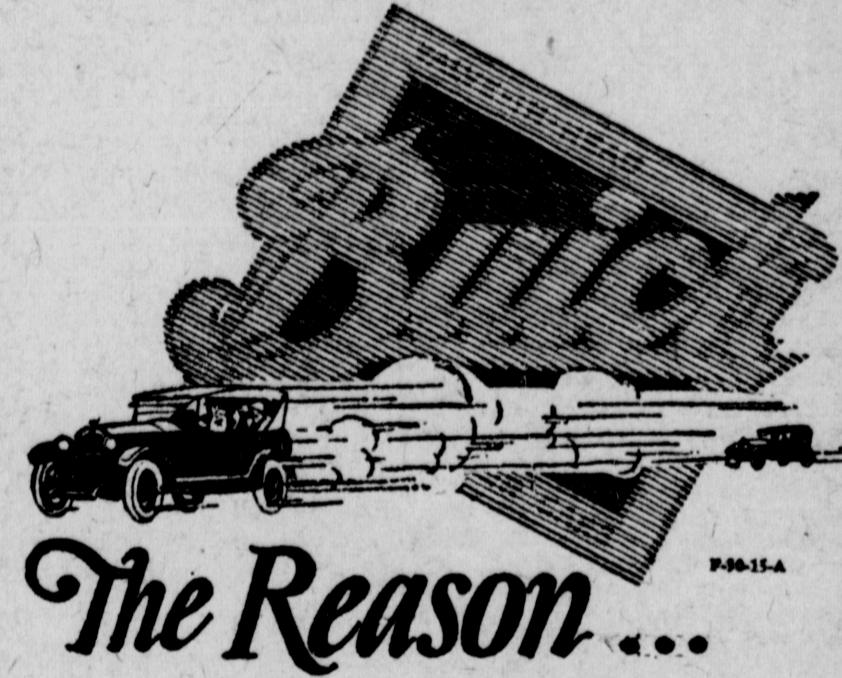

We must work happily, through the bitter and the sweet, and not fuss so much when surrounded by worries. These worries are just busy ant hills after all. The time always comes when a man discovers himself. And then nothing else matters much for it's a splendid world.

WILBERFORCE WILL HOLD CELEBRATION OF FOUNDERS' DAY

Founders' Day celebrating the founding of Wilberforce University, February 24, 1856 by Bishop Daniel A. Payne, will begin Monday night and close Tuesday night at the University.

The Founders' Day Committee, under the direction of Miss Tressie Clark, chairman, has already made extensive plans for carrying out an interesting program.

The students are divided into two groups, the "Green and the Gold" and the "Tayawas," and each group is making efforts to collect and report Tuesday night the largest donations for the benefit of the school. Much rivalry has already started and the amounts are posted daily on a large bulletin board.

The program will start Monday night with a musical comedy, under the direction of Prof. George Simpson, in three acts with orchestral accompaniment entitled "The Belle of Barcelona." The plot is a visit to old historic Spain, with an Irishman aboard, an English governess in trouble, an American lieutenant in love, the "Belle of Barcelona" engaged to a scheming nobleman. The characters and dramatic scenes will consist of 150 people appearing in rich costumes furnished by the Philip Szwirschina Company of Cincinnati.

Tuesday afternoon Bishop R. C. Ransom, an old alumnus of the school, will deliver the principal address. Bishop Ransom is an eloquent speaker and before he was elected Bishop was the editor of the A. M. E. Review, a literary magazine published by the A. M. E. connection.

Tuesday night, Miss Anna H. O. Williamson of the Normal Department, assisted by a number of students, will give a pantomime showing the activities of the departments using a stereoptican machine to make the illustrations.

JOSEPH H. DICKEY CALLED SUDDENLY BY DEATH FRIDAY

Joseph H. Dickey, 54, well known Xenian and life-long resident of Greene County, died at his boarding house at Detroit and Third Streets, Friday evening at 9:40 o'clock, after a sudden attack of illness.

Mr. Dickey was stricken with paralysis after eating his evening meal and his death took place a few hours later. He has been in ill health for several years.

He was born in Goshen Station the son of James H. and Sylvia Park Dickey. The Dickey family resided for a number of years on West Market Street. Mr. Dickey was associated with The Miami Powder Company, in the Xenia office, for a number of years.

He is survived by one brother, William Dickey, of Dayton. Two nieces also reside in Dayton. An adopted sister, Mrs. Stanley Jenkins, resides in Chicago.

Funeral services will be held Monday morning at 10 o'clock, at the J. H. Whitmer funeral parlor, East Market Street, with interment in Woodland Cemetery.

Friends may call at the Whitmer parlor, between 3 and 4 o'clock, Sunday afternoon.

CAESARCREEK HIGH TAKES DOUBLE BILL FROM VALLEY TEAM

Caesarcreek High ended its schedule in the County Basketball League in a blaze of glory by taking a double-header from Spring Valley, the boys' team winning 9 to 5 in a close encounter and the girls' team easily defeating its rivals by a 21 to 8 score. The games were played at Caesarcreek.

Center Jenkins played best for the winners in the boys' tilt, with two fielders while Noggle scored all of his team's five points. The lineup and summary of the boys' games: Caesarcreek (9) Spring Valley (5). St. John R.F. Noggle Hines L.F. Peterson Jenkins C. Frix Pickering R.G. Spitzer R. Peterson L.G. Hurley Field goals Noggle 2, Jenkins 2, St. John 1, R. Peterson 1. Foul goals Noggle 1, St. John 1. Referee Haines, Wilmington.

The girls had little trouble in downing Spring Valley girls. Holding a safe lead at the half by a 21 to 1 score, the second team replaced the first and was allowed to play the last quarter. The losers made seven points in the last period. Lewis made sixteen points for the winners. The lineup and summary:

GEORGE WASHINGTON GREATEST FIGURE IN AMERICAN HISTORY DR. M'CHESNEY SAYS

Characterizing George Washington as one of the greatest men in history and undoubtedly the greatest man in the history of America, Dr. W. R. McChesney, president of Cedarville College, delivered a forceful and eloquent address on "Washington, the Father of Our Country," before a large audience at the open house held by the Masonic Club at the Masonic Temple Friday night.

"If I may be allowed to quote the words of Abraham Lincoln, when I was called upon to pronounce the eulogy of Washington before a session of congress when he was president: 'Gentlemen of congress, the theme is too sacred, I cannot do it, let us meditate upon it,' declared Dr. McChesney.

Time's noblest offspring is the lance. Europe had its old conquerors, the Caesars, Bismarck, of the iron hand, Charlemagne with his dream, William the Conqueror, Napoleon. But it was left for America to produce the inventors, such as Edison and the Wright brothers, the authors such as Longfellow, the sages, the clergy the statesmen, such as Charles Hughes, the greatest man in the world today recognized for his brains and courage, and its financiers.

"Let us come to the last but not the least, the Cincinnati of the West, first in war, first in peace, first in the hearts of his countrymen, the beloved, immortal Washington, whose name will live long after other names are forgotten.

Consider the backward and almost mediæval times in which he lived. At that time the thirteen colonies were not united.

Born of Anglo-Saxon blood he was democratic in spirit and his apparently aristocratic reserve was simply modesty. He influenced his men, America and the world as no other living man did.

"I put Abraham Lincoln alongside of Washington and next to him in the matter of greatness.

"During his battles and throughout his life, he was always protected by the Unseen Hand that cared for him always.

"Was there any other man in this country or any country that ever undertook such a tremendous task with great odds against him as Washington elected to attempt when he was named commander-in-chief of the American forces. A God-fearing man, Washington firmly believed the cause of America was just.

"His personal magnetism was the confidence of his troops. This was shown once when a traitor was discovered in the heat of a battle and the troops were without a leader and discouraged. Washington rode among his troops with the words, 'My boys to the front,' led his consternated army forward and drove the British from the field. He was the only general in the entire army who could have inspired such confidence in his troops.

"God led Washington through the revolution in triumph and saw him crowned with success, finally granting him peace in his last year."

Miss Stella Bishop opened the musical program with a piano solo of $500.

WRIGHT FIELD MOVE BLOCKED BY BRAND IN SUB COMMITTEE

Citizens of Osborn who recently enlisted the aid of Congressman Charles Brand, of Urbana, in an effort to persuade the air service to abandon its plans to remove Wilbur Wright Field from its present site at Middletown, Pa., won a victory Friday.

Plans to remove the field were blocked at Washington, D. C., when the house appropriations subcommittee refused to approve an item of $275,000 for making the change.

It is not assured that the field will remain at its present site for at least another year with the possibility that the air service may abandon removal plans entirely.

Congressman Brand was instrumental in blocking the move. The subcommittee reached its decision shortly after Brand had introduced arguments against the economy and feasibility of the move.

Although the appeal of Osborn citizens to Mason M. Patrick, chief of the air service, were fruitless, arguments of the Osborn petitioners as voiced by Congressman Brand were supported.

The appropriation of $275,000 asked by the air service was for the purpose of launching work of removing the repair shops and the storage plant from Wright Field during the next fiscal year. Removal work was scheduled to be begun this spring.

Coming so enthused with the arguments of Osborn citizens, Congressman Brand spent the entire day last Sunday gathering material and data to present to the subcommittee.

The principal argument of the petitioners was that 315 men now employed at Fairfield would be affected by the change of which 225 are married and have established themselves and families in the vicinity of the air depot.

Brand pointed out that should the United States ever be drawn into another war the repair shop should be located farther in the interior than Middletown, Pa.

Headed by Attorney Morris D. Rice, a group of Osborn citizens first appealed to Congressman Brand against the removal pointing out that it was not worth the expense and that it could only work injustice to the majority of employees at the field, who have located at Osborn.

CORRECT USAGE IN SOCIAL CUSTOMS

Now it used to be considered quite the berries to take a box of candy to a theatre, but times have changed. The very latest is to take a couple ears of corn on the cob. An old tooth paste tube filled with butter is a very essential accessory. Tie a tablespoonful of salt in one corner of your handkerchief.

Well, there are some women who will take small children to the theatres who don't know what the wires under the seats are for. Instead of parking the babies on the wires until after the show, they will let their husbands put their hats there and will hold the babies. If, when the babies get to jabbering louder than the actors' mothers will leave, it is a sign of good breeding. In some cases it is well to take a rising vote of the audience to see which they would rather hear—the babies or the actors. In many cases the two evils would choose the lesser and ask that the babies remain.

Congress not yet having seen fit to make it a crime punishable by death for a lady to tell how a play is going to end, the following plan is suggested: In case the lady in front of you has read the plot and tells everyone around her that the fellow is going to marry the girl, etc., take the ear of corn and tap her gently on the dome like as if you were coming down with a sledge hammer to drive a stake into the ground, only harder. Then let her sleep until the performance is over.

Whatever you do, take an ear of corn to the theatre with you. For, as I have often remarked, an ear of corn in the hand is worth two corns on the toe.

WASHINGTON NAMED AS EXAMPLE IN TALK AT HOME EXERCISES

Dr. F. W. Stanton, pastor of the First M. E. Church, this city delivered the principal address on the Washington's birthday program, given by pupils of the O. S. and S. O. Home, in the chapel, Friday afternoon.

He took as his subject one of the outstanding features in the life of Washington, that of getting an early start in life. Dr. Stanton urged the importance of the proper training and start in life and told the pupils that this was the age of young people's success.

The program opened with the singing of "America" by the audience followed by the overture. Scripture reading and prayer preceded the exercises by the students.

The first three grades of the school gave a motion song, "Our Flag," and the third and fourth grades gave a hatchet drill. The "Song of Washington" was sung by the fourth, fifth and sixth grades.

A reading "A Mother's Advice" was given by Alberta McMichaels followed by another song, "Washington's Birthday" by fifth and sixth grade pupils. Other numbers on the program included an orchestra selection, concert reading, a ribbon drill, a "tag time picture" pantomime, "Nearer My God To Thee," by the high school girls, and the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner."

UNIVERSITY CHORUS TO SING AT CHURCH

The Wilberforce University Chorus will give a program of unusual interest Friday evening at the First U. P. Church, on East Market Street.

The Varsity Quartet which has worked together and traveled extensively will be present and give a group of "negro spirituals." This is the only appearance of the Wilberforce singers to Xenia for about two years.

There will be no admission charge but an offering for the "Founder's Day" celebration will be received. The Rev. James P. Lyle, pastor of the local church, announces that the entire offering will be given to the University.

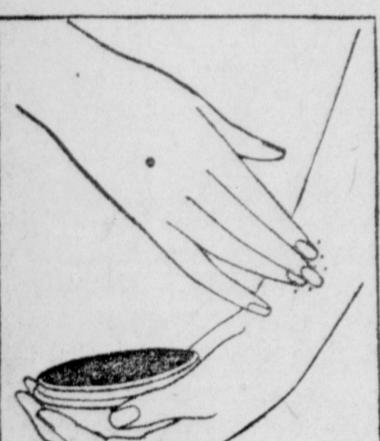

The program will begin at 7:30 o'clock, and the parents are urged to bring the little folks and have them sit with them. A large audience is anticipated.

BARN DESTROYED BY FIRE NEAR OSBORN

Fire completely razed a barn owned by operators of the Shaw farm, three miles east of Osborn, early Friday morning, causing damage estimated at $10,000.

The barn was completely destroyed and three valuable horses and eight cows perished in the flames.

A bucket brigade was formed by neighbors from near-by farms which prevented the house and other out-buildings from being destroyed. They almost caught fire a number of times.

AUTHOR OF "Lovers of Love," "The Husband Temer," etc.

WHO'S WHO AND WHAT'S HAPPENED

CYNTHIA and JIM LELAND settled down after their honeymoon, to find that Jim's mother intends to monopolize him as she always has. Cynthia cannot accustom herself to this, or to her mother-in-law's determination to remodel her. Jim leaves town on business, and Cynthia and Madame Leland quarrel. Cynthia makes the acquaintance of NOEL GARDNER, the black sheep of the town, recently returned from Paris, where his wife has divorced him. She also meets

CECILE MALCOLM, a gay young widow who has designs on Gardner.

TODAY'S INSTALMENT

XIX—A DECISIVE STEP

NOEL GARDNER called for Cynthia promptly at ten o'clock the next morning, too worried over her husband's actions to sleep. It seemed so queer that Jim should go off on a long trip without even asking her to go with him.

"Of course, when he left here he didn't know that he was going to Honolulu," she reminded her self. But she couldn't help remembering, also, that there had been plenty of time for her to join him, if he wanted her to. And he had said that his trip would be lengthened by the fact that he was to investigate some of the properties in which his mother invested—when her heaviest investments had been made right there in town!

"He's not playing fair with me," she told herself over and over again. "And if our married life doesn't go smoothly now, what hope is there for the future?"

She was glad to see Noel Gardner in the morning; glad to go out with him into the morning sunshine and be driven through the pleasant, sunny streets in his rakish roadster. "I ought to tell you the truth about this apartment I'm taking you to see, I suppose," he remarked. "It is the one which my wife and I took just after we were married, but we never lived in it. She was taken sick shortly after our marriage—had a very bad case of influenza, that developed into pneumonia—caught cold on our honeymoon, and it nearly turned out fatally. We had been home only a few days when she was taken sick, and as we were having trouble getting servants, she went to her mother's."

"When she was well again, she came home for a short time, and then something happened—things didn't go quite smoothly—and she went home again, and shortly after that went abroad with her parents, and hasn't been back since. I kept the apartment, believing that she would come back to me—to that, is—but she divorced me just recently in Paris, and of course there's no need to keep a home here any longer."

"Oh, I'm so sorry!" exclaimed Cynthia. She looked up at him sympathetically. He was so good looking, so nice—how could any woman treat him so! Well, Cecile Malcolm had said that the girl's parents had objected to him—but his wife, if she cared enough for him to marry him, certainly should have stuck to him, she told herself.

"I'd be awfully glad to have you have the little place," he went on. "I've spent a good deal of time in it, and really it's a very pleasant apartment. But tell me—if I'm not too impudent in asking—why are you giving up your house?"

"Oh, it's too big for me to stay in alone, and Jim expects to be away for some time," she answered, trying to speak casually, as if her hus-

Cannot Go Home to Die

EDWARD WATSON & MRS. LILLIAN WATSON

Edward Watson, a fourteen-year-old Portchester, Long Island, N. Y., youth, dying in a New York hospital of tuberculosis of the spine, begged his mother to take him home to die. When she sought to do so the hospital authorities stopped her, declaring the act would more quickly kill the youth. Mrs. Watson appealed to the court, which ruled that the mother must be denied and the boy kept in the hospital, where she may visit him daily and bring him toys and goodies.

George Washington

To whose memory we pay homage tomorrow set an example of what perseverance and determination can accomplish in one's life. His was the determination that this great land of ours should be free and independent of all foreign allegiance and his wonderful leadership and persistency in aiming for that goal—in 1776—made possible that freedom we now enjoy.

Emulate his example in your every day life. Be determined that your future should be as bright and happy as you can make it and free of financial worries of any kind. It can be done with a Savings Account in this great Bank.

COFFEE

While all coffee has advanced in price recently the advance on "E" BRAND has been small, and today it is selling at a lower price than any other coffee of the same grade. Ask your grocer about it.

In Washington's Time Coffee Was A Luxury

Today every table may be graced with coffee of the finest grade. "E" BRAND COFFEE is a blending of the highest grade coffee beans that can be secured. It makes a rich, golden beverage that is unfailingly good. Money cannot buy a better coffee but it is sold at a price all can afford to pay. It is packed in airtight paper packages, instead of tin cans—your money is invested in coffee quality, not in expensive packing when you buy "E" BRAND.
